What is Par?

By definition, "Par" is the number of strokes needed to complete a hole in a golf course. Each hole in a course is given its own par rating. The Par rating is based on the length of the hole from the permanent marker on the tee, to the centre of the green.

What is the difference between a Scratch and Slope Rating?

The Slope Rating is a measure of how much the difficulty of a course increases for the handicap golfer. The Slope Rating determines how many handicap strokes you get from a specific set of tees. The Scratch Rating is what your score is compared against when it's processed for handicapping.
